

SOCIOLOGY OF RELIGION

RESEARCH FUNDING

12-Month Intensive Seminar

Beginning Spring 2019

INFORMATION SESSION

October 5

2:00 - 3:30 pm

4060A Jenkins-Nanovic Halls

Though attendance at this session is highly recommended, it is not required to apply for the seminar.

Undergraduates from any department interested in the sociological study of religion and in conducting an original research project with up to $5,000 funding can apply at http://bit.ly/soc48666_app to take SOC 48666. Research projects may be used for senior theses.

In addition to in-class learning, mentoring, and funding, the program provides office space at and affiliation with the Center for the Study of Religion and Society (CSRS).

Associate Professor of Sociology and Director of the CSRS Kraig Beyerlein will lead the seminar and direct the research projects.

Applications open October 8 and close November 8.

Apply at http://bit.ly/soc48666_app

For more information, contact Professor Kraig Beyerlein at kbeyerl1@nd.edu.

5-7 Notre Dame undergraduate students will be selected.

Seniors are ineligible since the final part of the seminar will take place in Fall 2019.
